

Continental
The Future in Motion

Original will always be original. VDO is now Continental.

Continental, a global technology company and one of the world's leading automotive suppliers, is continually moving forward. VDO original spare parts have been consolidated under the Continental brand.

VDO original spare parts and VDO service tools are now supplied in Continental packaging. It goes without saying that they will be the same high-quality products. It's what's inside that counts.

The packaging is changed in a gradual manner, which means that mixed deliveries may occur. For a certain period, the products may come both in the new Continental packaging and in the familiar VDO packaging. In any case you will always receive the same original products.

Further information:

www.continental-aftermarket.com/markenttransfer